

RCH Archives

Good Faith Notice

Items from The Royal Children's Hospital archive and collections are being put on public display for the first time. It is one of the largest and most diverse collections held in any Australian hospital, spanning more than a century. Witnessing daily experiences of hospital staff and patients, the internal formation and development of the hospital alongside medical innovations and care throughout the decades, these collections hold many rich stories. An ongoing cataloguing and digitisation programme is in progress with continual updates to the www.archives.rch.org.au website.

The Royal Children's Hospital is dedicated to safely and lawfully sharing content online including but not restricted to images, text and audio. Like many other culture institutions such as archives, museums and libraries we are caretakers to a collection of content which contains various copyright holders. We are committed to tracing and identifying these copyright holders. A reasonably diligent search to identify and locate the copyright holders will be conducted before the work is used. Please contact us immediately (archives@rch.org.au or +61 (3) 9345 5112) if you consider that your copyright may have been infringed.

As caretakers to these 'orphan' works, we share this content with the best of intentions, providing the community access to an archive and collection of national significance. In sharing this content, we hope to discover copyright holders, please feel to contact us at: archives@rch.org.au with any queries.